

National Child & Youth Mental Health Day

May 7 2011

Mental Health challenges affect 15% of Canadian children and youth – 4-5 students in every classroom of 30 across the Nation struggle in the classroom, in making friends, in participating in activities and in functioning in their families. Mental health problems can happen to any child or youth regardless of age or circumstance. Join the discussion with youth, families, professionals and those working in or interested in child and youth mental health across Canada

Understanding & Defining Family SmartTM

Co-hosts: Dr. Jana Davidson and Keli Anderson

Founders of new National Institute of Families for Child & Youth Mental Health

We will be bringing together youth, parents, caregivers, professionals, service providers and those interested in child and youth mental health to help us define what Family SmartTM could mean to our Nation and help us in defining the outcomes that are meaningful to families and how Family SmartTM can help us reach those outcomes

Sites across Canada will be connected during parts of the day through webcasting and the dialogue across provinces and territories will be captured using Graphic Recording.

When: May 7, 2011
8:30 am – 3:00 pm

Host Site: Segal Graduate School of Business
Simon Fraser University, 500 Granville St. Vancouver
